Steinhoff International Holdings N.V.: SNH released yet another update on Monday morning. As it stands, the group is currently fully focussed on safeguarding operational liquidity to continue funding existing operations throughout its various subsidiaries. As a result, Steinhoff has asked for and requires the continued support in relation to existing facilities from all of its lenders to achieve an immediate stabilisation of its financing. Further to this, Steinhoff has appointed Moelis & Company as an independent financial advisor and AlixPartners as an operational adviser. Lastly, Moelis will support and advise on the group's discussions with its lenders, while AlixPartners will assist on liquidity management and operational measures.

EOH: Yesterday also saw EOH release an update. In it, the group confirmed that on Thursday, the 7th of December 2017, an extraordinary volume of EOH shares were traded on the JSE. The group has since established that the high volumes, as well as the substantial drop in the share price, was triggered by the forced sale of shares by financial institutions against equity financed transactions to various individual shareholders, including two EOH directors. Furthermore, EOH confirmed that the directors affected did not voluntarily sell their shares, but rather that the sale was caused by margin calls against these equity financed transactions. Meanwhile, as previously published, EOH confirmed that it has also finalised the sell-back agreement in order to unwind its acquisition of Grid Control Technologies, Forensic Data Analysts and Investigative Software Solutions. The decision to unwind these transactions with the aforementioned companies comes following lengthy discussions. These discussions were initiated as a result of a significant underachievement against performance warranties. In addition, recent media allegations relating to Mr Keith Keating caused EOH to expedite the unwinding and conclusion of the sell-back agreements. Lastly, in light of the allegations and in the interest of good governance, EOH has appointed Edward Nathan Sonnenbergs Incorporated to conduct a full fact-finding review of the commercial activities of the three companies mentioned above.
