Commodity Headlines

Friday saw oil prices end sharply lower, but Brent crude still recorded its sixth consecutive week of gains. By the close, Brent had fallen $0.79 as it moved to settle at $78.51 per barrel. This morning saw the industrial commodity erase some of Friday's losses, with Brent gaining 0.62%, or $0.49, to $79 per barrel. This uptick was mainly due to reports that China and the US have put the looming 'trade war' on hold as the world's largest economies agreed to drop their tariff threats. In contrast, spot gold was lower this morning, with the precious metal dropping 0.3% to just below the $1,290/oz level.

Currency Headlines

The rand performed poorly on Friday, dragged down by weak sentiment as well as the recent uptick in local and global bond yields. After a previous close of R12.599/$ on Thursday, the local currency got off to a stellar start as it moved to a session high of R12.517/$ at 9:30. However, from there, the rand erased all of its gains and more before touching a low of R12.793/$ at 17:00. The rand was mostly unchanged from this level over the weekend and was last at just below the R12.78/$ level this morning.
