Selected Releases

Sibanye Gold: On Wednesday morning, Sibanye released a SENS announcement confirming that the group had successfully completed an oversubscribed $1.05bn bond placement. The proceeds of the bond offering, which will be settled on the 27th of June 2017, will be used for the partial repayment of the bridge loan raised for the acquisition of Stillwater. In addition, this bond placement followed the highly successful $1bn rights issue that closed on the 9th of June 2017. Furthermore, the bond placement was comprised of two tranches. The first is a $500m five-year note that will carry a 6.125% coupon, while the second is a $550m eight-year note with a 7.125% coupon. Citi, HSBC and Barclays all acted as global coordinators of the transaction and were joined by Credit Suisse and Standard Bank as bookrunners. Lastly, in a statement by Sibanye CEO, Neal Froneman, he highlighted the support Sibanye received from global investors for both its equity rights issue as well as its corporate bond offering.

Capital & Counties Properties PLC: Yesterday also saw CCO release a short SENS announcement to inform shareholders that it currently expects to release its interim results for the six months ended 30 June 2017 on the 21st of July 2017.

Accelerate Property Fund: In the previous session, APF provided an update regarding the final dividend for the period 1 October 2016 to 31 March 2017. When the group released its results for the period on the 14th of June 2017, APF intended offering shareholders a share re-investment alternative in terms of which a shareholder would be entitled to receive the final dividend of 28.80469 cents per share in return for APF shares. However, APF has now advised shareholders that it has decided to not go ahead with this arrangement. Lastly, shareholders will now only be able to receive their dividends in cash.

American Market Headlines

Selected Headlines
 Wall Street ended in a mixed fashion yesterday, as a rebound in biotechnology shares was offset by a decline in energy shares and investor concerns about low inflation. The Dow Jones led the region's losses, with the index dropping 0.27% to close at 21,410.03 index points, negatively affected by a 3.3% decline in Caterpillar. Meanwhile, the S&P 500 fell 0.06%, dragged lower by a 1.6% slump in the S&P energy sector, with the sector extending its declines for the year to 14.9%. Lastly, the NASDAQ performed well and was up 0.74% to 6,233.95 index points, buoyed by a 4.05% rally in the biotechnology index.

European & Asian Markets

European Market Headlines

A decline in financial and energy shares weighed on European markets yesterday, with the Stoxx 600 index dropping 0.18% to close at 388.50 index points. In addition, the French CAC 40 featured among the region's top decliners and was down 0.37%, while the FTSE 100 and the German DAX shed 0.33% and 0.32% respectively. Italy's MIB index added 1.3%, boosted by positive developments in its banking sector. UniCredit, Intesa Sanpaolo and UBI Banca all gained between 2.5% and 5%, boosted by news that Intesa has offered to buy the good assets from two troubled Veneto banks.

Asian Market Headlines

Asian markets were trading mostly higher this morning, with the exception of the Japanese Nikkei, despite a sustained decline in oil prices. The Shanghai Composite led the gainers, with the index adding 0.76% to trade at 3,180.10 index points, on track to extend yesterday's 0.52% increase. The Australian ASX added 0.64% to 5,739.60 index points, with the index erasing some of yesterday's sharp decline. The Hang Seng was also trading in positive territory, gaining 0.46%, although this was partly offset by a 0.1% dip in the Japanese Nikkei, with the index weighed down by a weaker dollar.

Commodities & Currency Pairs

Commodity Headlines

During the previous session, oil prices extended its recent losses to drop to a ten-month low, weighed down by growing US production and reduced Chinese refinery activity. In what turned out to be a volatile trading session, Brent crude lost $1.20, or 2.61%, to settle at $44.82 per barrel. Furthermore, after initially stabilising somewhat this morning, the industrial commodity was once again trading lower, down 0.07% at $44.79 per barrel. Lastly, in contrast, spot gold had risen 0.48% to trade at $1,252.46/oz, helped along by an easing dollar.

Currency Headlines

Yesterday saw the rand trade in a mostly unchanged fashion, with the local currency showing little reaction to the release of slightly worse-than-expected inflation data. During the session, Stats SA released data that showed that the consumer price index (CPI) had risen by 5.4% during May, up from the 5.3% recorded in April and slightly higher than estimates of 5.3%. After a previous close of R13.089/$ on Tuesday, the rand strengthened to trade at a high of R13.027/$ at 8:40. Shortly thereafter, the local currency weakened to a session low of R13.129/$ at 10:10, before moving to trade at R13.061/$ at 17:00. Lastly, the rand was trading at just below the R13.07/$ level this morning.
